

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A secure, Internet-based universal data repository system for medication, solution and supply product information, including recall information, that can be automatically disseminated in real time to local data repositories at healthcare institutions to enhance the institutional safe use of medications and other medical products. The data repository provides product descriptions, scan codes, equivalency information, system-specific required data, and other safety related information formatted into fields for supporting medication safe use, including support of clinical calculations.

10

10016863 121401